I have been going to Axiom PT & OT for the past few months for Therapy for my shoulder. I am very pleased with the treatment I have received. The therapists and the staff at Axiom are very professional and friendly. I would like to single out to people for special mention my therapist Glenn send Kroetz who is so skilled in treating people with social arm and hand injuries he has helped me very much the other person is Linda at the Front desk. She is the first person you are seeing when you enter Axiom and she always greet you by first name. She handles her duties in a professional manner and she has great telephone skills.

I strongly recommend Axiom Plus to any person in need of physical or occupational therapy. The facility is very clean, modern and spacious, and the equipment is new in top-of-the-line. Most importantly the therapists aid and even though receptionists are all knowledgeable conscientious and caring each therapy session centers on the detailed evaluation of each clients individual needs and capabilities. My therapist, Christine Ellis, is truly exceptional. Axiom Plus is a very pleasant environment to exercise and heal. Personally, I think, this is the best therapeutic facility in Westchester.

– Dr.

A – Is for the Awesome people that work at Axiom.

X – Is for the eXtraordinary care clients receive.

I – Is for the Intelligence that is brought to every case.

O – Is for the Only place one should ever go to for physical or occupational therapy.

M – Is for the Marvelous results both my husband and I realized through our hard work and the guidance and direction we received.

AXIOM–need we say more?

My husband and I have rehabilitated a variety of ailments at Axiom: chronic back pain and other arthritic complications; a shoulder broken in two places and a torn rotator cuff; acute back pain caused by undiagnosed scoliosis and complications brought on by the aging process. The bottom line–yes, we worked hard to get better, and the good news is that we did! We looked forward to doing what had to be done because we saw results, and because we were doing it in a warm and positive environment surrounded and encouraged by a caring and exceedingly accomplished staff.

Axiom is the only place we would consider for rehab, and the only place we recommend to anyone who needs OT or PT. It's worth a trip from just about anywhere in Westchester, the Bronx, or just about anywhere!

My love for Yelping hasn't waned in the past 3.5 months, but my ability to walk more than a few blocks has, thanks to a quick but nasty slip getting onto the train and the subsequent ankle/foot double-whammy injury it caused. Hard to write reviews when you can't go anywhere (sadface).

Enter review for Axiom PT: The staff is professional and friendly, and this extends to everyone from the desk staff to the therapists themselves (and their great assistants). If you've had an injury and had to do PT, you know that it's 1) not a lot of fun and 2) really, really important. This is my second time in PT — I'm a natural-born faller, I suppose — and Axiom is the best I've seen.

My first go-around, I spent over a year in PT with a neck injury, jumping from place to place because I wasn't thrilled with anything I found. No jumping this time, both because Axiom is that good and because I'm sure my physical therapists there wouldn't approve of it yet.

Axiom Plus opened in 2010 and is a first -rate physical therapy center. The staff is knowledgeable and experienced and go out of their way to make the patients feel comfortable. Special shoes and braces are also available.
